

The seamless interplay between the neutral-colored contemporary furnishings and silk rug add to the warmth of this living space.

COLIN GRIFFITH

GRIFFITH INTERIOR DESIGN

Colin Griffith's unbridled zest for design and the Colorado lifestyle reveals itself in pitch-perfect personalized spaces that never fail to stir conversation—or to resonate with his luxury clients.

A quick glimpse at Colin Griffith's phone tells his discerning clients everything they need to know about the passion for design that he brings to high-end residential projects throughout Colorado. Instead of pictures of Griffith and his friends, his photo app is filled with images of stone, tile and window treatments, landscapes and sofas. "I'm always thinking of the complete picture for my clients," says Griffith, whose namesake interior design firm is based in Denver. "Rooftop terrace in the mountains? Awesome! I'm going to find vintage Pendleton blankets and then have a modern stand made to hold them. I'll install the perfect telescope so even on cold, clear nights, you have a reason to go out and explore the skies." It's that kind of infectious enthusiasm, not to mention his artist's eye for the elements that bring a room to life, that draws A-list clients to Griffith's concierge-level approach to design. It also helps that—along with his reference library of fabrics, books and concept images—the Colorado native has connections to innovative artisans, craftsmen and manufacturers around the world, allowing him to customize spaces in ways that clients could never imagine.

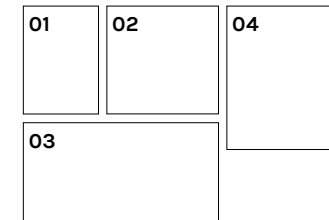

"I'm never afraid to invest the time to see if a modification or custom fixture or furnishing is possible when I have the vision for it in a client's space," Griffith says. "Often, I'm able to come up with an even better solution by collaborating with the manufacturers and creating a piece that is a feature of the design. I love to unveil these concepts to clients and explain the process. I'll never forget a client telling me how much joy her husband has when he gets to tell guests how a mural was created just for him."

"I feed off of the love and surprise my clients share every time they notice a little detail installed to make it their home."

SOURCE OF INSPIRATION

Griffith's background in construction and finance give him additional insights into design that often lead to cost savings. "The earlier I'm part of the project, the better the outcome," he says. Though he's adept at incorporating Colorado's picturesque natural backdrops into his design—his work is often referred to as "mountain modern"—Griffith's clients remain his greatest influence. "Telluride, Aspen, Deer Valley, these are all unique destinations with their own appeal," he says. "But my priorities are defined by what my clients want in each property. I create each property, regardless of location, ski town or city center, with lifestyle in mind. They are the dreamer, and I'm there to bring their dreams to reality."

griffithid.com

CAPTIONS & CREDITS

01.As evidenced by this statement-making jewel box of a space, Griffith is not afraid to take a risk with powder rooms.02.Bedrooms come alive when wrapped in a client's favorite fabrics—whether leather, wool, cashmere, silk or other selections.03.The Griffith team loves sourcing one-of-a-kind artwork for its clients, creative additions that turn a room into a destination.04.Contemporary architecture is softened with vintage chairs upholstered in hair-on-hide and hand-blown glass pendants.

Photography by Emily Minton Redfield